V. V. GIRI,

President.

Joint Secy. to the Govt. of India.

Reasons for the enactment

The problems of bargadars (share-croppers) in West Bengal have been engaging the attention of the State Government for quite sometime. The existing provisions in the West Bengal Land Reforms Act, 1955 relating to rights of bargadars are not considered to be adequate for safeguarding the interests of bargadars. Pending enactment of a comprehensive legislation with regard to bargadars, the proceedings for termination of cultivation by a bargadar were temporarily stayed by promulgation of an Ordinance in June, 1969, which was subsequently replaced by an Act of the State Legislature for continuation of the stay of proceedings up to 4th August, 1970. In the interest of agricultural production as well as of the continuity of cultivation by a bargadar, it seems more appropriate to make alterations in the grounds for termination of cultivation by a bargadar rather than to extend the period of the interim provision for the stay of proceedings of termination of cultivation. It is also considered equitable to provide for the continuous cultivation by a bargadar and, in the event of his death, by his lawful heirs, in respect of at least a minimum area with a view to enabling him to make improvements of durable nature and at the same time to permit small holders to resume cultivation of land for bona fide personal cultivation in specified cases. In conformity with the pattern adopted in other States it is proposed to reduce the owner's share of the produce from 40 per cent. to 25 per cent. in cases where the owner does not supply cattle, plough and other inputs. An opportunity has also been taken for making certain other modifications for ensuring smoother implementation of the Act. The present measure is being enacted to achieve the above objectives.

2. The Committee constituted under the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 3 of the West Bengal State Legislature (Delegation of Powers) Act, 1970 (17 of 1970) has been consulted before enactment of this measure as a President's Act.
